~ Optional ~

Please consider completing this optional section, which will give the Board a sense of why this review has been requested.

NOTE: When conducting a health impact review, the Washington State Board of Health will consider various ways that a proposal might exacerbate or ameliorate health disparities. Completing this section will give the Board a head start by helping it understand the reasons why a review is being requested.

Briefly describe how you think the proposal might impact health disparities and whether you believe the impact will be in a positive or negative direction.

In general, HB 1513 aims to address climate change by introducing a carbon tax at $25 per metric ton which escalates annual at a rate of 5% minimum. There are other factors that increase this rate of escalation, but the essential mechanism is a base factor with an annual escalator. The Bill aims to bond against this stream of funding to produce $5 billion to invest in clean air, clean water, and clean energy projects. The Bill also aims to target approximately one-third of the projected resources to support environmental justice projects that mitigate disproportionate impacts on communities of color, poor communities, and other marginalized peoples.

The Health Impact Review elements I wish to have explored involve the interplay between a carbon tax that disproportionately burdens the poor, often immigrant and often communities of color, and the investments in environmental justice projects? I am additionally concerned that, if the mitigation efforts contribute to hastening gentrification, the regressive carbon tax will effectually drive the poor further from jobs and community services which will require an increased carbon tax burden on them in order to remain employed and in touch with community-based organizations and services.

Are there specific organizations or community groups you would like the Board to contact as part of this review if time allows?
